

MY VIEW

SANTA FE + NEW MEXICAN

HOME NEWS SPORTS OPINION PASATIEMPO MAGAZINES MULTIMEDIA LIFE CALENDAR REAL ESTATE SUBSCRIBE CLASSIFIEDS

Thanks for visiting Santa Fe New Mexican. If you are 7-day print subscriber, please create an online account and then click 'subscribe' to activate your unlimited access. Otherwise, you're entitled to view 5 free articles every 30 days. Then, if you enjoy our site and want full access, we'll ask you to purchase an affordable subscription.

4 Remaining

Reader View: Santa Fe must address overgrown forests

Print Font Size: - +

Recommend 1 Tweet 0 G+ 0 Pinterest 0 Share 1

Tom Ribe

Posted: Saturday, April 2, 2016 7:00 pm

Tom Ribe

Fortunately, New Mexico has few natural disasters. We don't have big earthquakes or tornadoes, but we do have large forest fires that can denude mountainsides, burn homes, and cause flooding in towns. While people can't control the intensity of tornadoes or earthquakes, we can prepare for intense forest fires and make them less destructive to people and wildlife when they happen.

We are way behind on this urgent work in the Santa Fe area.

Big, intense forest fires are time-bombs waiting to go off. You need only drive or hike on the dirt roads and trails through the Tesuque Watershed to see thickets of sickly trees, heaps of sticks, needles and logs waiting for lighting or a careless person to set off a firestorm on a dry windy day. Look to the mountains above Tesuque and see the scar of the Pacheco Canyon Fire that killed most trees over 12,000 acres. Look across the valley to the Jemez Mountains where drought driven intense fires since 1977 removed much of the forest cover from Bland Canyon to Santa Clara Canyon.

A large fire starting on a dry and windy day above Santa Fe could transform our mountains, kill millions of trees, and send rainy season flooding into downtown Santa Fe and Tesuque. Flooding after the Las Conchas Fire devastated Bandelier National Monument, Santa Clara Pueblo and the Dixon Apple Orchard. Downtown Santa Fe and Tesuque could be next.

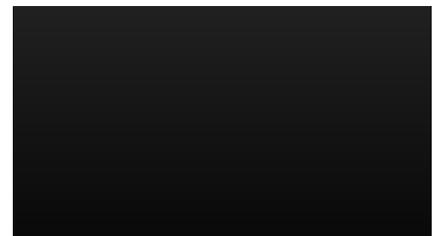

Preparing for an inevitable large fire near Santa Fe is urgent work for many professionals in federal agencies and nonprofits that understand that thinning

52 Weeks Free
UNLIMITED DIGITAL ACCESS TO
The Washington Post
with any
Santa Fe New Mexican
print subscription
SUBSCRIBE NOW >>>
SANTA FE + NEW MEXICAN
santafenewmexican.com

backcountry

 $189.95	 $219.99	 $149.99
 $486.85	 $29.38	 $249.99
 $87.95	 $224.99	 $129.99
 $699.95	 $41.22	 $199.95
 $79	 $599.99	 $129.95

NEWS VIDEO

thickets and controlled burning needs to be done over at least 107,000 acres near Santa Fe. That's so when the inevitable fire starts, it finds less fuel and burns with lower intensity. Foresters and ecologists know exactly what needs to be done and are ready, yet barriers stand in the way of improving forest health and protecting homes and towns from fire and flood.

Years of budget sequestration have left the U.S. Forest Service short on funds to do urgent fire preparation work. Controlled burning during wetter times is the least expensive way to calm future wildfires by reducing fuels in advance, yet some in our community complain loudly where there is temporary smoke in town.

A local campaign by "Once a Forest," a small, anti-technology group, has been spotted at public meetings and leafleting trailheads, campaigning against science-based forest management and for 1910-style wildfire suppression that was abandoned by conservationists and scientists more than 40 years ago. Their testimony and fliers utterly misrepresent the history of fires and forests in New Mexico and distort the intention and the reality of forest and fire management today.

Just as with medical science or computer technology, professional understanding of forests and wildfire have evolved and progressed over the last few decades of hard experience on the part of federal agencies. We know that low-intensity fires burned regularly in the Southwest for millions of years. We've missed many natural fire cycles in our forests due to past misguided fire management policies. Now the U.S. Forest Service and nonprofits are ready to correct decades of mistakes with a scientific program to treat 120,000 acres of the Santa Fe "Fireshed."

If Santa Fe is to avoid the devastation visited upon Los Alamos, Colorado Springs and Flagstaff, we all need to understand the centuries-old reality of fire in Southwest forests. If you want to help or get more information, please visit http://www.forestguild.org/SantaFe\_Fireshed and support local non-profit, city, county, and federal agency efforts to make our forests resilient again.

Tom Ribe is author of Inferno by Committee, a history of the Cerro Grande Fire. He has been working on prescribed fires since 1980.

++

Facebook Recommend 1, Twitter Tweet, Google+ 0, Pinterest 0, Share 1

Discuss, Print

Posted in My View on Saturday, April 2, 2016 7:00 pm.

More Stories
Reader View: A cleaner, more secure energy future is possible
Reader View: Lannan speakers continue to show bias
My View: State mustn't slash public health spending Reader View: Our schools: How we can take action
Reader View: New Mexico Museum of Art ready to expand

Most Read
Canyon Road hot spot up for sale
Another Arizona firm hired in mental health shake-up to leave state
Jemez Pueblo man gets life sentence for brutal murder
OptumHealth accused of fraud in three lawsuits
Man held in knife attack on S.F. movie set

To our readers, Santafenewmexican.com now uses Facebook to power its comments forum. You will need to login using your Facebook account to post comments to news articles. As always, we do require you to use your real, full name when posting and to be courteous to others when posting.

More videos:

WRITE US

Write us! We welcome opinions from the readers. Send either letters (150 words) or My Views (600 words) to letters@sfnewmexican.com.

You can write a letter once a month or one My View every three months. We require the letter writer's name, address and phone number to be considered for publication. We also encourage writers to include a photo of themselves.

Any questions? Call 986-3063.

MOST READ

- 1. Canyon Road hot spot up for sale
2. Another Arizona firm hired in mental health shake-up to leave state
3. Jemez Pueblo man gets life sentence for brutal murder
4. OptumHealth accused of fraud in three lawsuits
5. Man held in knife attack on S.F. movie set
6. Demonettes dethroned, finishing third at State Spirit despite flawless Saturday routine
7. Many claim they've solved Forrest Fenn riddle, but treasure hunt continues
8. Statin intolerance is real, researchers find
9. Eldorado can raise chickens following appeals court ruling
10. Burglar hits Eldorado gallery

backcountry
Grid of outdoor gear including a ski pole ($189.95), a wristwatch ($149.99), a fitness tracker ($129.99), a hiking shoe ($89.97), a GPS device ($219.99), and a Garmin Run watch ($337.49).

1 Comment

Sort by Newest

Add a comment...

Lisa Morley · Santa Fe, New Mexico

Thank you Tom! It's good to hear from the science-based side of this issue!

Like · Reply · Apr 3, 2016 7:37am

Facebook Comments Plugin

$129.99	$149.99	$29.38
$199.95	$79	$119.95
$74.21	$199.95	$149.99
$189.95	$63.20	$200
$89.97	$224.99	$219.99

COLUMNISTS

MILAN SIMONICH

Ringside Seat: Decline in Little League participation reflects troubling trend

LARRY TORRES

Growing up Spanglish: 'Grama' gets 'una' dishwasher 'nueva'

STEVE TERRELL

New Mexico no longer swinging

BIZIA GREENE

Keep your stay sweet at an Airbnb

backcountry

 $149.99	 $219.99	 $224.99
 $119.95	 $129.99	 $79
 $189.95	 $199.95	 $89.97
 $129.95	 $43.98	 $599.99
 $149.99	 $68.95	 $187.49

backcountry

 $149.99	 $189.95	 $199.95
 $29.38	 $219.99	 $599.99
 $79.16	 $224.99	 $129.95
 $181.35	 $249.99	 $135.96
 $149.99	 $69.99	 $359.99

Sections

Services

Connections

Search

Home

Place Classified Ad

- News
- Sports
- Opinion
- Pasatiempo
- Magazines
- Life
- Multimedia
- Weather

- Subscription Services
- Submission Forms
- Site Index
- Featured Ads
- Featured Ads Reprints
- Open House Listings
- Open House Re-Prints
- Add Search Toolbar
- Ad Rates

Phone number: 505-983-3203
© Copyright 2016, The Santa Fe New Mexican, Santa Fe, NM.
E-mail:
webeditor@sfnewmexican.com
Address: 202 E. Marcy St.
Santa Fe, NM 87501

- Contact us
- The Taos News
- The Sangre de Cristo Chronicle
- Enchanted Homes Real Estate Magazine

Search

Search in:

- |   |                                     |                                  |
|---|-------------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> All | <input type="checkbox"/> Pasatiempo | <input type="checkbox"/> Opinion |
| <input type="checkbox"/> News           | <input type="checkbox"/> Magazines  | <input type="checkbox"/> Photos  |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Sports         | <input type="checkbox"/> Life       | <input type="checkbox"/> Video   |